

Privacy Policy Atmos Groningen

In this document is stated what data is collected, why this data is collected and how the data is used by Atmos. It is also stated what your rights are concerning the data. This document is only applicable to the services offered by Atmos. The association is not responsible for data processed on other websites you might use to get access to the different media channels Atmos uses (e.g. Facebook).

If you have any questions or complaints about the processing of your personal data you can contact the board. It is also possible to file a request for insight on what data are stored, how your data is processed, or the removal of your data. As stated later in this document under 'duration of storage' the board will have to keep some of your data, so not all data can be deleted immediately. After deleting your data your membership will automatically be terminated.

After termination of your membership some of your personal data will be stored in the alumni administration. You will be informed about this beforehand. You can always ask the board not to store your data in the alumni administration or to remove your data from the alumni administration.

Cookies

Our website does not collect personal data with cookies.

2. Sharing of data

Without your consent the data are not shared with external parties. Exceptions are data shared when obliged to do so by law or faculty rules. For the storage of all personal data the web host Congressus is used, which saves all personal data on secured servers.

Your data may be shared with committees of Atmos when necessary for the organization of an activity. Committees are obliged to store your data where it is only accessible by a password.

3. Adjustment of data

Every member of Atmos is able to see, change or delete their address, telephone number and email address. Every member of Atmos is also able to select what information is visible on the online Almanac. The online almanac is only visible to members who are logged-in. This can be done after logging in on the website (www.atmosgroningen.nl). On your personal profile you can select 'Edit Profile' at the bottom of the page.

Other information (birth name, gender, date of birth and IBAN) can only be changed by sending an email to board@atmosgroningen.nl.

Information of alumni can only be changed

4. Protection of data

Your personal data is stored on the secured servers of Congressus, with whom the association has a data processor agreement. These data can be seen on www.atmosgroningen.nl. Every board member has access to your data using a password.

Data available on paper will be stored behind a locked door.

The board checks regularly if the privacy policy is followed or needs additions. Members will be informed when an update regarding this policy is made.
